Fonds Description

Department of Pathology fonds. – 1951-1992.

2 m of textual records.

Administrative History

The Department of Pathology is part of the UBC Faculty of Medicine, and is one of the twelve departments initially set up under the Faculty when it was established in 1949. The Department offers courses to medical students with the aim of enhancing the students' understanding of disease causation; the processes underlying the induction, progression, and regression of disease; and the understanding of laboratory tests in the diagnosis and treatment of disease. The Department of Pathology also has research teams pursuing questions about the causes, consequences, and control of degenerative, inflammatory, and infectious diseases of heart and blood vessels, interstitial and airways diseases of lung, cancer and carcinogenesis in adults and children, diabetogenesis, coagulation and blood diseases, lipid disorders, environmental risks to water, food and air, inflammatory and degenerative brain diseases, developmental biology and fetal-maternal relationships, imaging technologies and data integration strategies, and clinical-pathological correlations that rely on genetic, pathological, environmental, clinical, and demographic information.

Scope and Content

Fonds consists of textual records documenting the programmes and activities of the Department of Pathology, and the Department's relationships with other organizations. These records include minutes, correspondence, course outlines and related materials, and reports. The records are arranged in the following series: Minutes, Department Head, Courses, Buildings and Facilities, Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, and General.

Notes

Materials have been received in several accessions from the Department, and from Peter Easthope in 2009.

File list available.

Related records may also be found in the Faculty of Medicine fonds.

Series Descriptions

Minutes series. -- 1955-1992.

56 cm.

Series consists of minutes, correspondence, and related papers from Department of Pathology staff meetings, the Curriculum Committee of the Faculty of Medicine, and the Medical Dental Advisory Board. Other committees, from both within and outside the Department, are also represented.

Boxes 1, 2(1-11)

Department Head series. -- 1968-1989.

22 cm.

Series consists of correspondence, reports, and other textual records.

Title based on the contents of the series. All correspondence is from, or addressed to, the head of the Department. The records had been removed from binders, but not re-folded, and were otherwise unidentified when they arrived at the Archives.

Box 2(12-14)

Courses series. -- 1952-1977.

54 cm.

Series consists of course outlines, examinations, and related materials, and correspondence. It is primarily organized by course name and number: Pathology 375, Pathology 400, Pathology 424/425, Pathology 375, Pathology 448, Pathology 450, Pathology 452, Pathology 475, Pathology 500, Pathology 503, Pathology 506, Pathology 510, Pathology 512, Pathology 515, and Pathology 520.

Boxes 3-6, 7(1-7), 11(1)

Buildings and Facilities series. -- 1951-1973.

26 cm.

Series consists of records documenting the development of facilities for the Department and related UBC units, including buildings, equipment, and renovations. Records include correspondence, reports, and plans.

Boxes 7(8-20), 8(1-4), 11(2-6)

Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons series. -- 1957-74.

8 cm.

Series consists of records documenting the relationship between the Department of Pathology and the UBC Faculty of Medicine, and the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, and includes correspondence and reports.

Box 8(5-9)

General series. -- 1952-1986.

34 cm.

Series consists of records documenting the programmes and activities of the Department of Pathology, the Department's relationships with other organizations, and related subject areas. It includes correspondence, reports, course materials, and minutes.
