Dear Betty:

I was looking through my correspondence regarding the collective agreements of other organizations, and came across your letter to me dated December 1980. I sincerely hope that I answered your letter at that time, and enclosed a copy of our current collective agreement. However, in the event that I neglected to do so, I am forwarding you a copy of this agreement. Our contract with the University of British Columbia expires in March 1982.

Again, best of luck in your current negotiations and I look forward to receiving a current copy of your collective agreement.

Yours truly,

Wendy Bice
