British Columbia Women's Institute fonds. – 1892-2018.

16.6 m of textual records and other materials

Administrative history

The British Columbia Women's Institute (BCWI) was founded in 1909. This founding was initiated by Laura Rose, who was invited by the BC Provincial Government to extend her Women's Institute organizing activities in Alberta and Ontario to British Columbia. The objective of organizing Women's Institutes in BC was to support settler women in household and family management, food production and preservation, and other farming and homestead activities.

Following an initial survey tour, Rose organized the first fifteen BC Women's Institutes: Gordon Head, Lake Hill, Sooke and Otter, Metchosin, Tynehead, Coquitlam, Matsqui, Chilliwack, Agassiz, Summerland, Salmon Arm, Nakusp, Kaslo and District, Nelson, and Cranbrook. Geographical coverage expanded and in 1911, and branches were organized into four districts: Vancouver Island, Lower Mainland, Okanagan, and Kootenay. These aggregated districts were overseen by an Advisory Board appointed by the BC Department of Agriculture. At the Board's inaugural meeting, August 14-15, 1911, the BCWI motto "For Home and Country" was adopted.

Between 1919 and 1929, achievements included the establishment of the British Columbia Crippled Children's Hospital, the Queen Alexandra Solarium, and the Otho Scott Fund. At mid-century, the BCWI influenced the provincial government to name the Dogwood as the official provincial emblem. In the decades to follow, efforts focused on education, fundraising, and activism relating to agricultural sustainability and child welfare.

As of 2023, the BCWI is headquartered in Barriere, BC. The BCWI, along with other provincial Women's Institute organizations, are connected to the national organization, the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada (FWIC).

Custodial history

The fonds was acquired through several accruals between 2018-2022 from various donors. The foundational deposit was received from the Summerland Museum and Archives. Subsequent accruals were deposited by various individuals affiliated with the BCWI at the local and at the provincial level, or otherwise on behalf of dissolved chapters, including the Valley Women's Institute (Coldstream) and the Kamloops Women's Institute.

Scope and content

The fonds consists of records created and received by the British Columbia Women's Institute and its constituents and relate to the work done by members of the BCWI at the provincial level as well as its various local chapters. Records in this fonds consists predominantly of administrative records as well as the compiled research materials pertaining to the Women's Institutes and notable figures within. The fonds also includes documentation of the BCWI's intersections with the FWIC and the ACWW. Fonds is arranged into five series: 1) Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW); 2) Federated Women's Institutes of Canada (FWIC); 3) British Columbia Women's Institutes (BCWI); 4) BCWI district records; 5) Research files.

Notes

Source of title proper

Title is taken from primary creating body and is based on contents and provenance of fonds.

Physical description

Includes 35 artifacts, 10 digital storage devices, 7 oversized albums, 3,481 photographs, 7 videocassettes, and 1 vinyl record.

Conservation

Mold on several records which are in the process of being treated.

Arrangement

Gaps in numbering reflect files that were empty and removed from inventory.

District and branch files were received in predominantly alphabetical order within boxes, with many different and overlapping alphabetical sequences between boxes owing the nature of original compilation. Order within boxes has not been changed, and where applicable alphabetical ranges are reflected in the box label.

Restrictions on access

The fonds contains various concentrations of personal information and personally identifying information corresponding to BCWI district and branch members from the early 20th century until nearly present day in the form of membership lists including home addresses and phone numbers, personal correspondence, and email. To gain access to the fonds, users will complete a research agreement acknowledging their responsibility to engage with these personal details appropriately.

OSC ARC 8.1: Associated Country Women of the World. – 1939-2009.

14.5 cm of textual records and other materials

Administrative history

The precursor to the Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW) was founded 1929 in London, England as the International Conference of Rural Women. By 1933 in Stockholm, Sweden the organization had assumed its current name and mission, which is to “represent rural women, facilitate better access to better information resources, [and] fund community development projects and training programmes.” The ACWW remains headquartered in the UK. Its first president was Mrs. Alfred Watt (born Margaret Rose Robertson), who had previously served as a member of Metchosin Women's Institute (South Vancouver Island) and secretary of the Women's Institute Advisory Board for British Columbia. Per the ACWW official website, the organization “holds Consultative Status with the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), and the UN Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).”

Scope and content

Series consists of records pertaining to the BCWI's intersections with the Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW). Records in this series include photographs, publications, and some ephemera created by the ACWW. Other records in this series relate to various conventions hosted by the ACWW and affiliates held worldwide, including but not limited to where the BCWI was represented.

Administrative history

The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada (FWIC) is the head organization of the provincial Women's Institutes in Canada. After local and provincial bodies of Women's Institutes were established, the national organization was realized in 1919 in Winnipeg, Manitoba. The first president of the FWIC was Judge Emily Murphy. As stated by the official FWIC website, a national, united organization allowed for greater representation and a greater voice for the Women's Institutes in advocating for women's rights, rights to education, health care, and resolutions around the environment, and community development between the 1930s-1970s. In contemporary times, the FWIC continues to advocate for domestic education while also maintaining goals to support community projects, environment conservation, family equality, and gender equality.

Scope and content

Series consists of records pertaining to the BCWI's intersections with the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada (FWIC), into which the BCWI reported. Documents in this series include publications printed by the organization, documents detailing the history of the group, as well as records relating to conventions hosted by the FWIC, where the BCWI was represented.
