Administrative History

Athletics teams first formed at Vancouver's McGill College of British Columbia (1908-1915), which was the precursor to the University of British Columbia. When UBC was founded in 1915, officially formed teams included rugby, ice hockey, basketball, and field hockey. To better support sporting endeavors at UBC, the Big Block Club established the men's club in 1929, and the women's club in 1930. The primary function of these clubs was to provide volunteers to organize and promote athletic activities at UBC.

In 1933, UBC hired its first two physical education instructors, and in 1936 the UBC Senate recommended the establishment of a Physical Education Department, although the establishment of the department got postponed. It was 1945 when the first Director of Physical Education, Robert "Bob" F. Osborne, was hired for what was then the Department of Physical Education. Osborne, a UBC graduate, was a member of the Thunderbird basketball team that won the Dominion Championship in 1931. Alongside Osborne, Marian Henderson, a graduate of the University of Toronto, was Director of Women's Physical Education. At this time, the controlling bodies of sports at UBC were the Men's and Women's Athletic Directorate's (MAD) & (WAD). In 1946, while WAD continued under the control of the Student's Council, MAD was in control of its finances for the first time in UBC history.

In the early years, UBC's athletics grounds, buildings, and recreation facilities were considered as being below the standard of sporting facilities of other Canadian universities. While the construction of facilities was addressed somewhat after World War II, including the development of the War Memorial Gym in 1950, and the Thunderbird Winter Sports Centre in 1965, lack of facilities remained an issue into the 1980s. A committee was established in 1986-87 to review Athletics and Sports Services at the university. An increase in student participation in athletics created a higher demand for the administration to construct more physical facilities accessible at more convenient hours. Women's athletics coaches highlighted issues about equitability, where the administration was allocating three times as much money to men as to women's athletics.

The modern-day Department of Athletics and Recreation sports model ranges from student participation to the competitive UBC Thunderbird teams. The Athletics archives initially established by Douglas "Buzz" Moore (1922-2011). As well as being the "heart and soul" of UBC athletics for almost five decades, he also acted as an unofficial historian collecting records associated with UBC athletics achievements. The responsibility for the Athletics archives at the War Memorial Gym later went to UBC Athletics Historian Fred Hume. The first inductions into the UBC Sports Hall of Fame took place in 1993. In 2002, the UBC Sports Hall of Fame joined with the Big Block Club induction ceremonies. The Millennium Breakfast was established in 1999 and dedicated to raising funds for student-athlete scholarships and awards. Today, the Department of Athletics and Recreation supports more than twenty Thunderbird teams at UBC. The records of this fonds are a reflection of the rich sporting history of the university.

Scope and Content

The records of the Department of Athletics and Recreation fonds are representative of the athletics side of the Department of Athletics and Recreation. While athletics and recreation fall under the same department, in practice, they operate independently of one another. Their textual records are also physically held at separate locations. Surviving records in the Department of Athletics and Recreation fonds are broadly representative of the achievements of UBC athletes and teams. Far less extensive, are the types of administrative documents produced or accumulated in the course of the day to day business of the department. Examples of records present in the fonds include programs, historical research, scrapbooks, newspaper clippings, team rosters, scoresheets, profile write-ups, yearbooks, media guides, correspondence, agendas, training schedules, coaching handbooks, travel itineraries, and ephemera.

The Department of Athletics and Recreation fonds is arranged in the following series; Athletics History, Baseball, Basketball, Athletic Events (including Big Block, Hall of Fame, and Millennium Breakfast), Cross Country Track and Field, Field Hockey, Football, Golf, Ice Hockey, Media & Promotions, Assorted Sports, Other Sports (which includes Skiing, Sailing, Tennis, Gymnastics, Rowing and Wrestling), Rugby, Soccer, Swimming and Volleyball.

Notes

A detailed inventory and report on the original conditions of these records were compiled in 2017. This report is with the accession file.

Photographs are located separately in the vault and have been assigned series UBC 4.1.

Athletics Historian Fred Hume donated photographs and research materials in December 2021 and January 2022. The photographs have been included in series UBC 4.1 and the textual materials can be found in the Athletics History Series.

Further accruals expected.

Search Tips

Optical Character Recognition (OCR) has been applied to this document. If required, a spreadsheet of the following data is also available. Please ask Archives staff for details.

As many names as possible were transcribed, names can be found in the "title" and the "notes" section. However, in large team photographs where listing names was too time-consuming, it is indicated in the "notes" if team names are included on the front or back of the picture.

In instances where handwriting was difficult to decipher, a best guess was made. It is worth trying different spellings of first and last names as there are occurrences of an individual's name being spelt different ways on separate photographs. In some instances, only last names were recorded on the photograph. In others, only first names were recorded.

Former UBC Athletics Director Russell J. Buzz Phillips was known as Buzz Phillips; his name is spelt both "Bus" & "Buzz."

Some unidentified photos have been retained because of their quality or because certain sports and athletes are underrepresented. Outside of the primary photographs, the Archives has kept some unidentified athlete's headshots (ca. 300 athletes). The Unidentified Headshots finding aid can be found in the last nine pages of the following list. These unidentified headshots will be retained for 40 years until 2062. We hope that the UBC Community will assist in identifying some of these individuals. After this time, any unidentified photographs will be deaccessioned. These headshots can be found in the vault with the Oversize photos.

Some scanned copies of individual and team photographs were retained as it is unclear whether the originals survive.
