The Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation Fond. - 1955-1988 - 13 m. of textual records.

The Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation was established under the Societies Act of British Columbia on April 26, 1955, with an initially capital grant of one million dollars. The founders were Dr. Leon Koerner, a lumbering entrepreneur of Czech origin, and his wife Thea. Subsequent gifts were made to the Foundation from their estate and additional revenues were gained from real estate investments.

The purpose of the Foundation is to fully sponsor or assist innovative non-capital projects in educational, cultural and social development, with priority given to projects originating in British Columbia. Grants are generally in small amounts, intended to provide seed-funding and encouragement, and are available only to educational or registered charitable organizations. The only exception to this rule are grants provided through a Grants-in-Aid Fund administered by the University of British Columbia to assist individual young people with education in the arts.

Originally the major focus of grant support was in the area of higher education, but by mid-1970s, with increased government and private sector funding in the area of academic and medical research, the Foundation changed emphasis to the area of culture/creative arts. This includes assistance to theatre companies, orchestras, libraries, galleries, museums, and community arts councils. The Foundation also supports universities and colleges in British Columbia in academic research projects (though the Foundation largely abandoned this field in the late 1960s as it judged itself lacking in the competence to assess such applications), the mounting of conferences, and the maintenance of associated cultural institutions. Foundation support in the health and welfare area includes assistance to organizations involved in delivery of social service programs and public education. The Foundation is administered by a self-perpetuating Board of Governors of twelve to twenty-one members representing fields of experience in education, the arts, health and welfare and finance and industry.

The Board meets in an Annual General Meeting for administrative and legal purposes, and as a Grants Committee in the spring and fall of the year to assess applications and make allocations. A Finance Committee supervises the investment and administration of the funds of the Foundation. The operations of the Foundation are supported by a part-time secretary/administrator.

The fond is comprised of two series: 1) Application and report files which contain the applications submitted to the Foundation, supporting materials, and reports on use of the funds, as well as general administrative files and promotional materials; 2) Grants-in-Aid files which include applications for individual grants, supporting material and reports on use of funds.

Title derived from official name of the organization.

File list is appended.

Further accruals are expected.
