INTRODUCTION

The core of the collection was provided by the Alan H. Boag Foundation in 1964 which donated party correspondence, minutes, and publications which had been gathered at Boag House. In addition, the personal papers of Angus MacInnis, Francis McKenzie, and Ernest Winch, stored at Boag House, were transferred to the Collection. Scrapbooks created by W.W. Lefaux, W. Mandale, D.G. Steeves, and L.C. Way relating to the activities of the CCF were included in the Collection. Dorothy Gretchen Steeves also added her material collected on early socialists in B.C. and international affairs. The Collection was augmented with the addition of printed material from various donors and further CCF files from the Provincial Office of the New Democratic Party.

The Collection was named the Angus MacInnis Memorial Collection at the Suggestions of Walter Young, who was very active in co-ordinating the initial transfer of material to the University Library. Owing to the obvious relationship between the kinds of items in the Collection and his activities during a long, distinguished career as public servant, the name of the Collection was very appropriated.

The personal collections of many individuals and organizations have been donated to augment the kinds of material in the Angus MacInnis Memorial Collection since its creation. Rather than changing the inventory constantly, material has been accessioned under the name of the donor and separate inventories have been created. Separate inventories should be consulted for the following papers and records:

- B.C. Provincial CCF Women's Council, Vancouver branch
- British Columbia Young New Democrats
- Cameron, Colin
- Charlton (Ormand Lee) Family
- Delta New Democratic Party Constituency Association
- Garrison, Lindsay
- MacInnis, Grace
- McGougan, John
- Morgan, John
- New Democratic Party of B.C.
- Shepherd, Leonard
- Smith, Evelyn
- Steeves, Dorothy Gretchen
- Turner, Arthur
- Vancouver Area Council of the NDP of B.C.
- Vancouver Women's Committee of the NDP of B.C.
- Vancouver Women's Committee of the NDP
- Webster, Arnold
- Webster, Daisy
- Young, Rodney

The association of Angus MacInnis with the labor movement encouraged the deposit of various records—Amalgamated Transit Union, Div. 101, 134, Vancouver Trades and Labour Council, and Prince Rupert Trades and Labour Council. The deposit of these records have, in turn, encouraged the deposit of other labour records such as those of the B.C. Federation of Labour and has given the Library an extensive manuscript collection on socialist and labour history. For other deposits relating to the activities of the labour movement, see A Guide to the University Archives & Special Collections Personal Papers and Private Records. In the index, the heading – Industrial relations – B.C., lists union material.

With a generous grant from the Alan Boag Foundation, Norman Amor was able to catalogue over 2000 pamphlets in the collections. The pamphlets have now been listed in the Library's Miscellaneous Material File by author, title and subject. In addition, the pamphlets have been pulled from the Collection and SPAM number on pp. 19-46 of the inventory. When requesting material from pp. 19-46, please request both the box and folder no. and the SPAM number on separate cards.

The preparation of the initial inventory to the Collection and its revision has been the work of many staff members, Library School students, and Youth Employment Programme students. The task of checking all the file folders and preparing a final arrangement was the project of Andrea Demchuk during the summer months. However, there have been a collection to process without the foresight of those persons who preserved B.C. socialist and labour records. They would echo the sentiments of Dorothy Gretchen Steeves when she wrote:

“During the course of my researches I discovered that a great many valuable records of B.C.’s early labour and socialist history are no longer available or difficult to locate. I appeal to all who possess letters, papers or documents of any kind which may pertain to social or political history not to destroy them in backyard bonfires, but to give them to an appropriate library or collection of archives where they can be examined and preserved for posterity.”

Printed material: subject files

Although the files contain much printed material, mainly pamphlets, they also contain other research (e.g. mimeographed items from the Research Division, CCF National Office) and some corres. With A. Webster, and the Prov. Sec'y. If the files contain research material for other dates as well as the 1953-57 period, they are listed if available. There is some overlap with the previous subject files. The dates for the pamphlets vary from ca. 1890's – 1960's and the dates are not listed beside the subject files.
