Biographical Sketch:

Alan Butterworth Plaunt was born in Ottawa on March 25, 1904 to Francis Xavier and Mary Amelia (Butterworth) Plaunt. The family was financially comfortable due to involvement in the lumber and railway tie business in the Ottawa area. Plaunt was educated at University College, University of Toronto (B.A. 1927); and Christ Church Oxford (B.A. Honours in modern history, 1929). At the University of Toronto he was a member of the Kappa Alpha Society and its Secretary during the 1925-26 academic year. He had a lifelong interest in radio broadcasting and he sympathised with the recommendations of the 1929 Aird Royal Commission on Radio Broadcasting. His belief in a publicly owned system lead both he and Graham Spry to found the Canadian Radio League in 1930. Plaunt helped establish the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission (CRBC) in 1932 and its successor the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) in 1936. He remained with the CBC until his resignation in 1940. Plaunt was a member of the League for Social Reconstruction and in 1933 he founded the New Canada Movement to enlighten rural youth about farm problems and the need for a changed social order. Through his various activities he was closely acquainted with David Lewis, Eugene Forsey, Frank Underhill, Frank Scott, and George Grube. Plaunt was married to Dorothy Plaunt Dyde and he died of cancer on September 12, 1941.

Scope and Content:

The Plaunt correspondence contains a detailed record of the events surrounding the history of the Canadian Radio League, the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission (1932), and the Act creating the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The fonds consists of four series: Personal Papers, the Canadian Radio League, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and Dorothy Plaunt Dyde. Fonds contains correspondence, financial records, subject files, clippings, reports, submissions, publicity material, and other documentary forms.

Notes:

Title based on contents of the fonds.

It is assumed that all of Plaunt's papers came from Mrs. Dyde.

No restrictions on access.

No further accruals expected.

Series:

Personal Papers. – 1930-1941.

Series consists of materials on radio as well as Plaunt's interest in civil rights, the New Canada Movement, and Canadian foreign policy. Series consists of incoming and outgoing correspondence, subject files, and a photograph of Plaunt.

Canadian Radio League. – 1930-1936; predominant 1930-1932.

Founded on December 8, 1930 by Alan Plaunt and Graham Spry, the Canadian Radio League promoted public ownership of Canadian radio. Plaunt was the honorary secretary and financial backer of the organisation. Supported by former fraternity colleagues of both Plaunt and Spry as well as some notable Canadian figures, such as Louis St. Laurent and Newton W. Rowell, the CRL was an active pressure group.

Series consists of organisation index cards, correspondence, notebooks, financial records, minutes, press releases, publicity material, statistics, printed material, newspaper clippings, and working papers.

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. – 1936-1942.

The Canadian Broadcasting Bill was read and passed in the House of Commons in June 1936 and the Broadcasting Act was proclaimed law on November 2 of the same year. The resulting Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) was to regulate private broadcasters. The CBC had a chairman and a policy board of nine (later eleven) members of which Plaunt was one. Gladstone Murray, a former assistant controller with the British Broadcasting Corporation was named the first General Manager of the CBC.

Series consists of an organisation file, correspondence, memoranda, minutes and agenda, speeches, writings, financial records, reports, submissions, programming records, notes, clippings, legislation, records relating to the Havana Conference and from parliamentary committees.

Dorothy Plaunt Dyde. – 1941-1962.

Series consists of general correspondence collected by Mrs. Dyde after Alan Plaunt's death up to the time the records were presented to the library.
