E. HERBERT NORMAN PAPERS

Good name in man and woman, dear my lord,
Is the immediate jewel of their souls;
Who steals my purse steals trash;
'tis something, nothing;
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands;
But he that filches from me my good name
Robs me of that which not enriches him.

Shakespeare: Othello III.iii.

E. HERBERT NORMAN PAPERS

INTRODUCTION

General

The following introductory material includes information on the donor of the papers, the parents and siblings of Herbert Norman, the Norman family in Japan as missionaries, and the education, career and scholarly activities of Herbert Norman.

Donor

The E. Herbert Norman Papers were donated to the Library: Special Collections, UBC in 1987 by Irene Norman, widow of E. Herbert Norman. Irene, nee Laura Irene Clark, and Herbert were married in Hamilton, Ontario August 31, 1935 according to one source (Bowen, 1984) and on August 31, 1936 according to the data sent by Herbert to The Canada Who's Who. Irene Norman currently resides in Ottawa.

E. Herbert Norman

E. Herbert Norman was a scholar, author, foreign service officer and career diplomat. He was the third of three children born in Japan to Reverend Daniel Norman, D.D. and Catherine Heal Norman. Herbert was born in Karuizawa, Japan on September, 1, 1909. His sister Grace was born in 1903, and his brother Howard was born in 1905.

Herbert's parents were involved in missionary work in Japan for more than forty years. They were highly respected by the Japanese. A church built by Daniel Norman in Nagano was destroyed as a firebreak X during the war and was subsequently rebuilt after the war as the Norman Memorial church.

Herbert's father was born near Aurora, Ontario on a farm, and was a graduate of Victoria College, Toronto in 1896. He first went to Japan as a missionary in 1897. Herbert's mother was born on a farm near Mitchell, Ontario and received her B.A. from Victoria College in 1896. His parents were married in Ontario in 1901 prior to both leaving for Japan. They retired to Canada in 1940 where Daniel Norman died in London, Ontario, June 19, 1941 and Catherine died in Strathroy, Ontario December 20, 1952.

Herbert was educated by his mother in the early grades and attended the Canadian Academy at Kobe to complete his junior matriculation in 1926. During this period Herbert spent one year in Toronto (1923-24) when his parents were on furlough. In 1925, again in Japan, Herbert contracted tuberculosis and spent time in a sanitorium in Kariuzawa, and accompanied by his mother in late 1926, spent another period in a sanitorium outside Calgary, Alberta. During his confinement Herbert continued his education reading history, philosophy, and other learned subjects. On recovery from his illness in 1928 Herbert completed his senior matriculation at Albert College, Belleville, Ontario where his brother Howard was teaching.

Herbert majored in classics at Victoria College, University of Toronto where he received a B.A. in 1933. He won a Kylie Scholarship in history in his last year at Victoria College and this took him to Trinity College, Cambridge, England where he completed a second classics B.A. in 1935. Herbert and Irene were married at this point and Herbert taught classics part-time at Upper Canada College while continuing his post-graduate education at the University of Toronto. He was awarded a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship in far eastern studies in the fall of 1936 and entered Harvard University where he completed his M.A. in 1937. While serving as a research associate with the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR) in New York, he completed his doctoral dissertation titled "Japan's Emergence as a Modern State" which he successfully defended, and was awarded a Ph.D. by Harvard in 1940. Howard Norman, on study furlough, was attending the Union Theological Seminary in New York only three blocks from where Herbert was studying during this period.

Herbert entered External Affairs in July 1939. He was posted to the Canadian Legation, Tokyo, May 1940 as a language officer and was subsequently promoted to third secretary December, 1941. He was interned with fellow embassy staff at the outbreak of the Pacific war in December 1941, and was subsequently repatriated to Canada, as part of a prisoner exchange in 1942. He worked to the end of the war in 1945 with the Examination Unit of External Affairs in Ottawa where he organized a Japanese intelligence section. He was promoted to second secretary rank in February 1944.

Herbert's first two post-war assignments were, first to assist in the repatriation of Canadians from the Phillipines, and then to serve in Allied intelligence in the occupation of Japan from September 1945 to January 1946. In the spring of 1946 he served as alternate Canadian delegate to the Far Eastern Commission in Washington, D.C. and was promoted to first secretary. In August 1946 he was appointed head of the Canadian Liaison Mission, in Tokyo, with accreditation to the Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers. He served in this post until October 1950.

Herbert Norman was returned to Canada in late 1950 where he was subjected to a security investigation which cleared him of allegations of being a communist brought by the American intelligence community. He was cleared by the RCMP and appointed to head the American and Far Eastern Division of External Affairs. He again became the subject of allegations of being a communist in 1938 as a result of the testimony of Professor Karl Wittfogel appearing before the McCarran Committee. As a result of the publicity he was moved from his post as head of the American desk in July 1952 to administer the Information Division.

Herbert Norman was made High Commissioner to New Zealand in May 1953 and remained in that post until 1956. He was then appointed as Ambassador to Egypt and Minister to Lebanon. He arrived in Cairo just 2 months before the start of the Suez crisis. He was in Beirut presenting his credentials when the crisis began. He worked hard to convince President Nasser to permit Canadian peacekeeping troops into the Sinai as part of a United Nations contingent. In March 1957 old allegations concerning his alleged communist ties resurfaced at U.S. Senate hearings. He committed suicide in Cairo on April 4, 1957. His ashes were placed at the base of a tree next to the poet Shelley's tomb in the Protestant Cemetery in Rome.

E. Herbert Norman continued his scholarly activities throughout his career. He was offered posts by the University of Washington in 1941, by Yale University near the close of the war, and by the University of British Columbia in the early 1950's. He delivered several papers in Japanese at scholarly conferences; participated in the affairs of the IPR, and helped reorganize the Japan branch after the war. Herbert Norman was elected president of the Asiatic Society of Japan. He wrote many well known papers including: "Japan's Emergence as a Modern State"; "Soldier and Peasant In Japan; the Origins of Conscription"; "Feudal Background of Japanese Politics"; "People Under Feudalism"; "Persuasion or Force: the Problem of Free Speech in Modern Society"; "On the Modesty of Clio"; and "The Place of East Asian Studies in a Modern University". His book "Ando ShoeKi: A Forgotten Philosopher of 18th Century Japan" was published in 1949.

GUIDE TO INVENTORY

General

The E. Herbert Norman Papers are contained in two boxes and a total of 74 separate folders. There are 32 folders in box one and 42 folders in box two. The foldered material is ordered into nine separate record series. There are no subgroups in the papers. In addition to the foldered material there is a bound volume kept separately in the monographs section of Special Collections, a Japanese woodblock print kept separately in a large map folder, and a can of 8mm movie film kept in box one.

There is potentially a considerable attraction and value in these papers for students of Asian studies. Of particular interest is the picture of post-war Japan contained in the papers. Anyone interested in the history of missionary work will find the papers informative as well. There are a number of items in Japanese text which await the analysis of a person, or persons who can translate the contents. There are two papers about the Japanese written in French. Anyone interested in the life of E. Herbert Norman will find the E. Herbert Norman papers a must.

Description

The papers contain working and personal correspondence for the period 1945 to 1950. The correspondence is arranged in chronological order by year for the period represented. Both incoming and outgoing correspondence is represented. There are a number of biographical items included. The correspondence clearly illuminates the diplomatic and scholarly pursuits of Herbert Norman. There are a number of items associated with General Douglas MacArthur in this section.

The clippings show the respect in which the Norman family was held by the Japanese. The continuing interest in the Herbert Norman story is also evident.

The ephemera series contains a color illustrated woodblock print with Japanese text. The print was contained in the illustrated envelope in folder 1-14. The print being of large size is kept separately in a large map folder. The print is about foreign trade and dates to ca. 1899.

The black and white film is of the E. Herbert Norman Award Presentation.

The legal documents are agreements between Herbert Norman and his publishers.

The manuscript section contains a bound volume of photocopied papers written by Herbert Norman. The volume is kept in the monographs section as DS 881.9 N675 1978. The series folders contain the original manuscript of Herbert Norman's book "Ando ShoeKi: A Forgotten Philosopher of 18th Century Japan". Seven chapters, with footnotes, and the preface to the Japanese edition are included.

The speeches and writings section contains many original papers, lecture notes and reviews written by Herbert Norman, and a number of the speeches he made while in Japan and New Zealand. There is material included which shows the esteem in which the Japanese held Herbert Norman. There are a number of items by other authors in this section.

The conference papers series contains ten separately bound papers by Japanese scholars. The papers were delivered at the Twelfth IPR Conference, Kyoto, Japan, Sept.-Oct. 1954. Asian studies students should find the papers of interest.

The miscellaneous series was necessitated in part by the translation difficulties presented by the items written in Japanese text. The petition from Kumazawa Banzai, a pretender to the Japanese throne, to General Douglas MacArthur is an item of interest. The list of contents of the E. Herbert Norman Papers as donated is included here. Not all items on the list were received. The Japanese material awaits the efforts of a translator.

Norman’s families, as well as photographs of memorial services held for E.H. Norman. Also included in this series is a medal given to E.H. Norman in 1933 from Victoria University. The series is arranged into files in keeping with their arrangement at time of transfer: Loose photographs form one file (Loose photographs); photographs that appear to have been compiled into an album have been removed from their pages and created into one file (Album pages); photographs in three albums cannot be removed without tearing, and therefore form three more files (Album from an unknown function, Album from E.H. Norman’s memorial in Japan, E.H. Norman “Reminiscence” album) and one photograph of E.H. Norman is in a frame (Framed photograph).
