Introduction
Vancouver, New Westminster and District Union Label Trades
Council Collection
1939-1981

The use of the union label and promotion of goods made by unionized workers was the mandate of the Vancouver, New Westminster and District Trade Union Label Council. The first meeting, in September 1939 was an interesting date for commencement of union label promotion. The war years would see an end to economic depression and layoffs and create a climate where patriotism could be used to overshadow concern for proper working conditions in industries. However, unions survived the war and the label committee gained support, through donations of the city's craft unions.

The union label committee's classic campaigns began in the 1950's and continued until the late 1970's, and Josephine Hallock was ever present. In 40 years with the organization Hallock served as secretary, vice-president and president at varying times. She instituted annual exhibits at the Pacific National Exhibition and at national meetings of the Trade Union Council of the Canadian Labour Congress. She also served on a number of committees, including the B.C. Federation of Labour Women's Rights Committee in the 1970's.

Hallock's husband Earl died in 1974. This did not slow her dedication to the union label campaign, but steered her in other directions philosophically. At this time, according to her papers, she began to take an interest in Eastern religions, specifically Theosophy which views life as "an expression of the eternal, of God...it points to the grand stages as revealed in all religions, as the Stairway from man to God..."

The desire to know of an everlasting life, and a drive for recognition of union made products are two sides of a remarkably energetic woman. This collection reveals the passions in Josephine Hallock's life and will aid students of the labour movement and social historians interested in alternative religions.

Hallock retired from the union label committee in 1979, and the following year the name was changed to the Vancouver Trade Union Label Committee. Hallock died in 1985, and the collection was passed onto the Trade Union Research Bureau, and came to UBC in 1987.

Guide to Inventory
Vancouver and New Westminster Trade Union Label Council Papers
1936-1979

The Vancouver and New Westminster Trade Union Label Council papers are comprised of housekeeping records and material collected by Josephine Hallock, as a result of her activities as secretary, vice-president, president and chairperson over four decades.

Minutes from 1939 to 1953 are bound in volumes with financial reports attached. Records from 1948 are missing, while the years 1954 to 1962 are bound, largely without financial records. Records from 1965 to 1972 are missing, and those to 1979, are unbound and spotty.

Correspondence files are largely in regard to appeals for funds and remarks to contributing unions. These files may be useful as an overview of participants in the Union Label movement, but this information is more succinct in the Financial Records, which includes receipt books and ledgers which denote per capita contributions from 1958 to 1969.

The Trade Union Label Committee was a body of the B.C. FEDERATION OF LABOUR and therefore a grandchild of CANADIAN LABOUR CONGRESS. In the late 1960's and early 1970's Hallock received conventions proceedings and reports generated by these organizations, which are listed as subject files. THE B.C. FEDERATION OF LABOUR WOMEN'S RIGHTS COMMITTEE IS an interesting body of material within the B.C. Federation of Labour file. Newsletters and material relating to a 1975 conference are valuable to an understanding of the concerns and activities of trade union women in the mid 1970's. Other material relating to women includes a pamphlet and newsletter regarding INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY and a skit from WINTERSCHOOL 1975 which looks at sexual harassment.

Over the years Hallock and her husband Earl, along with co-founder ED SMITH attended a number of conventions across the country, in connection with the TULC and in Earl's case, the UNITED BROTHERHOOD OF CARPENTERS AND JOINERS. These sojourns resulted in the accumulation over time of UNION BUTTONS and DELEGATE BADGES. These are largely oversize, pinned for display on cloth covered boards. PHOTOGRAPHS of Trades and Labour Congress UNION LABEL COMMITTEE and UNITED BROTHERHOOD OF CARPENTERS AND JOINERS are also found in Oversize.

When Hallock retired from the TULC in 1979, she had collected a voluminous amount of material related to the promotion of the union label, but her passion for rights of the working people extended to human rights in general. Through the 1970's she attended meetings of the B.C. HUMAN RIGHTS COALITION and the UNITED NATIONS ASSOCIATION IN CANADA. Minutes and press releases are among these subject files.

Vancouver, New Westminster and District Union Label Trades Council

Hallock's remaining personal items are listed under Subgroups, JOSEPHINE HALLOCK and A.E. (EARL) HALLOCK. Items of interest under the latter include dues books and an initiation book from the UNITED BROTHERHOOD OF CARPENTERS AND JOINERS and an UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE CARD, C. 1950's.

Josephine Hallock's personal papers are comprised largely of housekeeping records of the THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY of the HERMES LODGE, Vancouver through the mid 1970's. Her interest in spiritual growth is also shown through miscellaneous files related to Asian Studies. A handbill advertising a visit to Vancouver by 60's drug promoter turned guru RAM DASS is included here. Posters relating to the event are found in Oversize, as are mounted clippings from the B.C. FEDERATIONIST and THE WORKER newspapers of late 1919 and early 1920.

Vancouver, New Westminster and District Union Label Trades Council fonds: Addendum to Inventory (2001)

Dates of creation: 1921-1984.

Physical description: 2 cm textual records, 2 books, 47 photographic negatives, 59 photographs, 60 signs and posters, 20 pins and ribbons.

Scope and content:

The acquisition contains a variety of print material from the Union Label Trades Council, including two record books from the early days of the Council, and a number of photographs, posters and signs remaining from the Council's promotional and public-awareness campaigns. Of particular note are a number of union convention pins to be added to the substantial collection previously acquired.

Immediate source of acquisition:

This material was donated in November, 2000 from Arthur Kube of Surrey, British Columbia. The union convention pins and ribbons were obtained in exchange for a number of union pins that were to be included in the Canadian Labour Congress pin collection housed at the Simon Fraser University Archives.

1. Textual records series. 1921-1960(?)

70 items

This series contains 2 books, a minutes book and an accounts book, from the early years of the Union Label Trades Council, as well as drafts of reports and a small number of miscellaneous items.

2. Photographic images series. 1956-1964.

106 items

This series is composed of 47 photographic negatives taken to document Union Label Trades Council activities associated with "Union Buying Week" in 1952. These photographic negatives were all taken by David Wade. The other 59 images in this series are photographs which document Council promotional activities, in particular the Council's booth at the Pacific National Exhibition in various years, and the participation of Council members (in particular Josephine Hallock) in Canadian Labour Congress and other conventions.

3. Ephemera series. 1950-1984.

82 items

This series consists of signs and posters, most of which were used as part of the Council show booth, as well as a number of union convention pins and ribbons. The majority of these pins and ribbons are from AFL-CIO and IWA Conventions.
