INTRODUCTION

On April 7, 1917 a group of 31 seamen meeting in Vancouver formed the Shipmasters and Officers Association of Canada. By November of that year, its name was changed to the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, and Andrew Goodlad was hired as Secretary. On June 6, 1919 the C.M.S.G. was incorporated as a national union. On January 10, 1921 it merged with the Canadian Merchant Service Guild of Ontario; the Ship Masters' Association No. 1; and the Masters, Mates and Pilots of America. The new organization, called the Canadian Navigators Federation, was organized into four divisions: Western, Great Lakes, St. Lawrence, and Eastern. Because of a legal technicality, in 1922 the Western Division reverted to its original name of Canadian Merchant Service Guild, Inc. In 1946 the C.M.S.G. established a regional office in Montreal, and assumed jurisdiction over the three eastern divisions of the former Canadian Navigators Federation (C.M.S.G., Western Branch, Folder 13 - 13). On January 20, 1966, the National Association of Marine Engineers merged with the C.M.S.G. (N.A.M.E. Papers, Box 3). On Sept. 28, 1965, the revised By-Laws of the C.M.S.G. formally established the division of the union into the Eastern and Western Branches.

The Western Division or Branch has always been the most active section of the C.M.S.G. It has primarily been concerned with organization of deck officers and engineers working the ferries, towboats, and ships of the British Columbia coast, the Interior lakes, and the Mackenzie River system. In addition to representing its members in collective bargaining and grievances, it acts as a hiring agency, lobbies for improved navigational and safety regulations, and sets standards for training of marina officers.

RESTRICTIONS

Permission must be obtained from the Guild office prior to the photocopying of any material.

Permission must be obtained from the Guild office prior to the use of any files relating to the 1970 strike.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COLLECTION

The materials in the C.M.S.G. Western Branch collection were deposited with Special Collections on August 1st and 23rd, 1978. The arrangement and description of boxes 1 to 21 was partially completed by a volunteer. The remainder of the project was completed by James Bowman in March and April, 1983.

The original order of the collection is outlined in the two "mini-inventories" appended to the inventory. Some artificial reorganization of the collection has taken place, although the integrity of the contents of most boxes has been retained.

Folders 31-18 to 35-41, which consisted of individual files and loose papers apparently unrelated to the rest of the collection, were artificially arranged by categorizing them as Internal Communications, External Communications, or Ephemera.

Because the collection has been handled by many different persons in the C.M.S.G. and in Special Collections, the continuity of some sequences of records has been broken, and some records have been grouped under misleading subject headings.

The researcher is advised to become thoroughly familiar with the inventory before searching for a particular document or group of documents.

RELATED MATERIALS

Special Collections holds the Year Books of the C.M.S.G. for 1920 - 1955, catalogued as HR VK1 C353 A55. The Minute Books of the C.M.S.G. (1917-1965) and the records of the National Association of Marine Engineers (1919-1966) are kept as separate collections in the Manuscript Room.
