Dear Jane:

Would it be possible for you to provide our office with a copy of the article you wrote entitled "New Office Technology: How you can get lost in the computer age", from The Facts, CUPE, Vol. 2, No. 3, August 1979?

I am compiling a bibliography of the information received during the conference in Ottawa last week. In addition, I am trying to establish contacts with other groups in the country (I have some in the U.S. as well). I am hoping we can exchange information on micro-electronics and office automation.

Our plans here are to begin through our union meeting and our newsletter to educate our membership to these changes. It appears that once again solving our own problems is the order of the day.

It was nice to meet and talk to you, hope we can do it again some time.

Yours truly,

Carole Cameron
