As members who are anxious to be more aware of our Union's activities and of its plans for the future, we feel we must protest the fact that so little notice is given of general meetings. We only received the agenda and notice of the last meeting, held at 5 p.m., 15th January, at 1:30 p.m. that same afternoon. Although this was partly due to the lateness of the mail delivery to our particular department, the situation would not have altered substantially if we had received it earlier in the day. For those with homes and families, and also for those who have made social arrangements for the evening, it is impossible to change plans so hurriedly. In addition, such late notice does not permit one to give any thought to, or carry out any research on, agenda items.

It would be very interesting to know whether or not our constitution stipulates how much notice must be given for a regular meeting. During the strike it was necessary for meetings to be called at very short notice, but there was nothing particularly urgent about this last meeting. We therefore urge that you make every effort in the future to give members of our Union at least two or three days' notice of meetings.
